The Sontronics Elevate will attach to any desk or surface with the built-in clamp providing optimal stability. The versatile design features a unique construction, with three lockable joints so you can easily position your microphone then lock it into place. The thing that sets the Elevate Boom Arm apart from conventional boom stands is the integrated cable channel.

The cable channel allows you to run the mic cable through the arm itself, creating a minimalist and tidy look. The base can also be rotated so you can push the microphone to a side whilst not in use. The robust powder coated aluminium construction ensures maximum durability and a long lifespan.
